A Lively Tilt In Norfolk

When the State Democratic Convention met in Norfolk on June 11th, the question of doing away with primaries for the nomination of candidates for office in the Tenth district was taken up in the district meeting which preceded the State gathering and it brought on a lively discussion. It soon developed that the Democrats east of the Blue Ridge, are wedded to the primary, while many of those from the cities and counties west of the Blue Ridge favored a return to the convention method of making nominations. The keynote of the discussion, however, was sounded by H. H. Byrd, of Bath county, who stated that under the primary plan the candidates and not the people dictated the party platforms. Another strong point made was that the primary tends to stir up strife, that the row resulting from a close primary contest do not heal by the time of the regular election and that by the elimination of the conventions the Democrats are deprived of the opportunity to touch elbows and naturally know little of each other in either a social or political way.

Take next year when the Democrats will elect seven State officers. There will be no convention held to adopt a platform of principles and the several aspirants will go before the people and tell them how to run the State instead of the masses assembling and giving instructions to the candidates. Had there been a State convention in 1921 the Democratic party would have taken a position on the road building program and possibly avoided the bond issue election of 1923. By adopting a platform against issuing bonds the record would have been made up and the Democrats made acquainted with a fixed policy. On the other hand, if the majority favored bonds, the General Assembly would have carried out the party platform without referring the matter back to the people. This year the Democrats will have the national platform as a chart and compass, but in 1925 they will permit a few men to dictate the party policies and be much like a ship at sea without a rudder. In all fairness permit us to inquire, Is this right?

In view of the fact that the party authorities throughout the Commonwealth have the right to call either a convention or primary, there was little or no argument to be made along this line, but as district and county conventions do not write major platforms, we favor a State convention next year either before or after the candidates have been named. Platforms by a few men are undemocratic.—Clifton Forge Review.

Platforms and party law are necessary, but the people will not consent to a return to the old Convention method of nominating candidates for office. What the people demand is a primary, plain and definite that will not permit Committees and Judges of election to disfranchise people as a class, by excluding them from the polls. No partizan Committee or Judge should be allowed to say who may vote. The law should fix that question if the primary is to be held at expense of tax-payers,

Davis and Bryan

The largest Democratic Convention in the memory of man came to an end yesterday and the delegates are now on the way home. On the 103rd ballot John W. Davis, of West Virginia, was nominated as the standard-bearer of the Democratic party. He is a conservative, able lawyer and a strong man. The Virginians favored him after Senator Glass. He was the choice of all the candidates of Congressman Tucker.

For Vice-President Governor C[illegible] W. Bryan, of Nebraska, was nominated. He is the brother of W. J. Bryan and is a very popular man in his state, and is a progressive Democrat and will win many farmer votes for the ticket in the west.

The Convention was long, expensive and tiresome, but we must congratulate the ticket given the Democracy and now let all rally around the Standard and place in the National White House once more a Davis from the South.

Era of Good Feeling

In American political history the two administrations of President Monroe, up to the time of the campaign for his successor, 1817-1824, was known as the era of good feeling. There were practically no issues and but one party. Monroe being unanimously re-elected in 1820 except for the personal whim of one elector.

Auction Sale

FINE APPOMATTOX FARM

As executors of the late W. C. Harvey we will offer for sale at public auction on the premises, in Appomattox county, Va., on Saturday, July 26th, at 11 a. m., the following described real estate:

The splendid farm, of 80½ acres, on which the late W. C. Harvey resided at the time of his death. This fine estate is well watered, fine state of cultivation, contains about 30 acres of timber and 50 acres in cultivation.

The improvements consist of a splendid dwelling of 9 rooms and basement, and every room is large and well arranged, tobacco barn, 2 tobacco barns, 2 cribs and one stable and shed, good hen houses, granary, and other buildings.

This property is only a short distance from Appomattox, with good roads and churches, on U. S. Rt. 460 and public road.

The farm has been well handled and is one of the best improved farms in this section of the county and well worth the attention of those looking for a home.

Terms of Sale—One third cash on day of sale, balance on January 1, 1925, when possession of farm will be given the purchaser. Deed will be executed and delivered on the day of sale.

Commissioner's Sale of valuable town lots at Appomattox and Farm lands near Chap in Appomattox County

In execution of a decree of the Circuit Court of Appomattox county, Va., entered at the June term, 1924, in the chancery cause of E. C. Fleshman vs. H. W. Fleshman, etc., and as such Administrator of the estate of Martha T. Fleshman, deceased, and others, the undersigned Commissioners will offer for sale at Public Auction on FRIDAY, AUGUST 1st, 1924, at 10 A. M. at the court house in Appomattox, Va., the following tract of land, more or less, on which Marion T. Fleshman and J. T. L. Fleshman resided at the time of their deaths, and which is the property of the estate of said decedents. This tract of land has been subdivided into lots and villes and will be sold as subdivided.

Second—Said Commissioners will on said day, at the hour of 2 P. M., offer for sale at public auction on the premises, a tract of land owned by J. T. L. Fleshman at the time of his death, lying adjacent to the above described tract, and the property of Appomattox.

This tract of land has been cut up into seven smaller tracts of land and will be sold as it has been subdivided.

Terms of Sale—One-third cash on the resales in one, two and three years from the day of sale, the purchaser to execute bonds for the deferred payments, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent from the day of sale, the whole of said bonds to be retained until the whole of the purchase money is paid. The purchaser may pay the deferred payments and pay all cash for any tract of land at any time he desires to do so. The property is very desirable and valuable in all respects. The lots are situated practically in the corporate town of Appomattox, convenient to schools, churches and the business section. The farm lands are well improved and are situated on the public road, and but one good dwelling and small tenant house. The farm lands are well limited and will be sold in small tracts to suit purchasers or suit another group, subdivided as public road and has one dwelling on it.

This is a rare opportunity for prospective purchasers who are seeking homes near Appomattox, and the terms of sale are made subject to satisfaction by court.
A. H. CLEMENT,
W. C. HATCHER,
Commissioners.

The bond required by decree of the Circuit Court of Appomattox county, Va., in the above cause has been executed by A. H. Clement and W. C. Hatcher, Commissioners, with approved sureties.
C. W. SMITH, Clerk.

It's the extra pound of flesh on the fowl that cheapens production costs and commands a premium price for the poultryman. According to the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation the extra pound can be put on for from 5 to 7 cents, which increases the value of each pound to the consumer by making the entire carcass more plump and attractive, so it commands a fancy price over lighter birds. Heavy hens sell from 5 to 11 cents more than light hens. It's true all down the line—turkeys, ducks, capons, hens and young frys—the extra pound brings the extra dollar.

Over a period of three years the New York market shows heavy fresh-killed milk-fed fowls or hens weighing 5 pounds or over to average from 4 to 11 cents higher per pound than the light fowls weighing 3 pounds. The five-year average for the month of September shows the heavy fowls to average 9 cents over the light weight, the margin broadening during October and November, reaching its height in December, when the heavy fowls range to 11 cents a pound over the light weights.

The average weight of the ordinary fowl as it comes from the farm is 3½ to 4 pounds. The poultryman with the eye for business will add an extra pound or so and receive the top prices. The farmer who takes this, understanded poultry to market is beating himself.

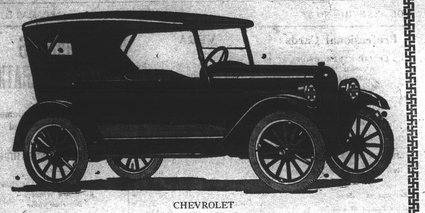
Health Insurance for the Whole Family



CHEVROLET

Without counting the daily utility of a Chevrolet for going back and forth to work, shopping or taking the children to school, etc., its value in saving doctor's bills, broadening your mental horizon and keeping the whole family physically fit, amounts to more than the cost of the car and its upkeep. It is more of an essential to the modern family than anything else but a home. Chevrolet meets the requirements of the modern family because it is economical to buy and maintain, because of its excellent appearance and riding comfort, because it can be depended upon, and because it is so easy to drive that any member of the family can use it.

A commission of lunacy was held at the home of Mr. Collier harvey this morning and he was adjudged and ordered to the State hospital at Staunton for treatment. Mr. Harvey has been in bad health for sometime and his friends hope for him a speedy recovery.

Dr. D. N. Twyman and W. M. Hancock intend to give the town pure water. A 30,000 gallon tank has been ordered and will be erected on the property of Dr. Twyman at once, and the pure, crystal water flowing from the artesian well of the ice plant will be stored for use.

The Billy Sunday boys closed a meeting at Friendship Baptist church Sunday night with 50 conversions. Will start meeting at Mt. Zion Baptist church at Fort Mitchell Sunday, July 13, Hebron Methodist church August 3, Drakes Branch August 11, Wesley Chapel August 24 and Keysville early in September.

Sunday morning about 6 o'clock the happy home of John P. Marshall was destroyed by fire. The house was a total loss, but neighbors who heard his call saved most of his furnishings. No one seems to know how the fire started, when discov ered Mr. Marshall was out milking and the children had not awakened. Insurance carried $2000.

Monday night the Spout Spring Mercantile Corporation was burned with a total loss of building and contents. This is a company of colored people who have been doing business at Spout Spring for three years with Rev. Price of Farmville, as presi'ent, Walker Jordan as manager. Insurance carried $1000.

Monday morning Hutson Jennings left his tobacco ground and wandered through the woods into Buckingham county. A large crowd of his neighbors began a search at 11m as soon as it was discovered that he had left. The search was kept up all day Monday and Monday night. Tuesday he was located at Andersonville and his friends went for him and took him to his home near Evergreen. A commission of lunacy was held here today to consider his case and he was committed to the hospital for treatment. Mr. Jennings is perhaps one of our best farmers, but became despondent over the gloomy prospect for a crop and worried so about it that it is thought his mind became temporarily unbalanced. His friends believe he will soon be well again. Much sympathy is expressed for his wife and family.

Marriage Licenses

The following marriage licenses have been issued in Lynchburg to Percy Baxandall and Effie Caroline Rutledge also Gustav Adolph Kleunter, and Florence Lorena Harvey, all of Lynchburg.

Phillip Wilhelm Murray, of Newport News, and Ethel Carter Robertson, of Lynchburg. Miss Robertson is the daughter of the late Dr. D. Mott Robertson, of this county.

Cheatham—McDearmon

Elliott Cheatham and Miss Frances McDearmon were united in marriage at the home of the bride here Saturday morning by Rev. A. L. Stevenson, the bride's pastor. Mr. Cheatham is in business at Jacksonville, Fla., to which place they will go after a few days vacation at Virginia Beach. The bride as a graduate of Randolph Macon College and has been teaching for three sessions and is the very popular young daughter of agent C. S. McDearmon here. Both parties were educated here and have long been sweethearts. Good wishes of a wide circle of friends follow them.

Appomattox Association

The annual meeting of the Appomattox association will be held with Hebron church, Appomattox county, July 22-23. The church is six miles from Concord Station, N. & W. Ry., where passengers will be met by notifying Mr. S. L. Scruggs, Concord Depot, Va.

Although this is a country church, it is not far from Lynchburg, Spout Spring or Concord and easily accessible by auto-roads. There will be much business of interest crowded into the two days' session and a large attendance is expected. Men from the Baptist State Mission Board and from Lynchburg, also one or more foreign missionaries are invited to have place on the program.

Coleman Re-union

On July 4th the hospitable home of Mrs. Anna E. Coleman was again the scene of a happy reunion. 9 of her children, 27 grandchildren, 3 great-grand-children and other relatives and friends were present, making a total of 83, perhaps the largest number ever assembled in a re-union at this home. Doubtless the dear mother was exceedingly glad to witness the happy scene, where she was the honored one, the central figure of all the re-unions.

We are sorry that Mrs. Blanche Ferguson, one of the children, and some of the grand-children were absent.

Mr. East held a very helpful, impressive, service on the lawn.

His remarks were forceful and much in favor of keeping the "kind spirit" and taking time to enjoy life.

Surely there is no joy altogether like re-union joy at home where mother is.

At night there was a brilliant display of fire works, appropriately celebraging the 4th.
